Albany, 9.—Joseph P. Greaves, of New York, a stockholder in the WesternUnion Telegraph Company, filed an application to-day for the commencement of an action to compel the Western Union to vacate its charter, and have its officers resign. The attorney general will hear the case December 10th. Geaves is, according to Western Union officials, a clerk in the house of stock brokers for the Mutual Union officials, a clerk in the house of stock brokers for the Mutual Union, and his application is spitework, and prempted by a desire to bear the market. Many of the acts charged as illegal have already been decided valid. The action complained of was taken upon the advice of able counsel, after an exprinciple of the statutes and it is amination of the statutes, and it is still believed by our counsel to have been strictly in accordance with the law. Only yesterday the Mutual Union Company made an effort to lease its lines and properties to this company, which, if we had accepted, these proceedings would have not likely been brought.

SENATE.

Washington, 9.—Pendleton asked unanimous consent to take up the civil service bill, and make if the special order for Monday. Veorthees objected.

Beck made a warm speech declaring he would show all sorts of outrages under the assessment plan. Men and women were ousted for refusing to pay, though unable to do so, and their democratic friends had given them money to pay and avoid starvation.

It was finally agreed to conclude the bill on Monday.

Hawley introduced a bill which was referred to the committee on civil service reform, to prevent efficiers of the United States from collecting subscriptions, or assessments from each other, and the first section provides, "No member, or less Moine Ia, 9.—The solutions.

A Dark Crime.

Kingman, Ks., 9.—The county is excited over a dark crime committed two years ago, which has just been unearthed. Two years ago a gigantic land swindle was in operation here, and included in its active participants the sheriff and county attorney. The scheme was discovered and all parties arrested. The sheriff broke jail and the county attorney. Sproudis, skipped his ball, as all believed. His wealthy relatives, fearing foul play, set a detective at work and found on the farm of a confederate, his coat with two bullet holes in it. It is with two bullet holes in it. It is aupposed all hands interested killed Sproulds to prevent states' evidence. All hands have been arrested.

Those river and harbor bill dollar dropped in pennies and nickels. the dodge succeeded I stood saids for by the ladies who were passing, all evidently attracted by the fine face of the beggar, the clean-looking dog and the musical atrains of the tireless the beggar, the clean-looking dog and the musical strains of the tireless box as it jingle out an aria from Semmabula. No one stopped to consider that beggars are not supposed to be able to buy $100 music boxes, but the harbors of Philadelphia, Baltimore, Mobile, New Orleans and Galveston. (Applause.) If there ever was a veto which deserved to be overriden it was the veto of the harbor bill by the honorable gentlemen who now holds the seat at the end of the avenue. He offered no opposition to the principle of the bill, but to the great amount—a question of Congress alone to settle. His veto deprived him of respect from the House. Answering Kasson, MoLean said he challenged Kasson to interest the strain of the tireless at a furious passed on, thinking she had performed a charitable sction. Two hours after I passed the beggar, and found him still scooping in the mickels at a furious rate. No doubt he realized eight or ten dollars before sunset. There is a story extant of a man who tried unsuccessfully to got the House. Answering Kasson, MoLean said he challenged Kasson to it is discretion after Congress had appropriated the money.

Kasson—I accept the challenge, and say I will support any president democratic or republican, in expending as little as he can, unless a corresponding as little as he can, unless as the corresponding to the curve of the curve of the curve chase a farm. It is quite true, and the man is living still. In fact, begexpress law law requires it. General chaise a farm. It is quite stuce, as the man is living still.
